INTRODUCTION

STATE OF THE REGION RACIAL SENTIMENT SURVEY

STUDY PURPOSE

Recent events have reinforced the vivid history and continued presence of systemic racism and unacceptable racial disparities throughout the country. Within the Tampa Bay region, these issues were further underscored by the dramatic inequities revealed in the 2020 Regional Equity Report.

The Tampa Bay Partnership conducted this Racial Sentiment Survey as part of the State of the Region Initiative, in collaboration with the Community Foundation of Tampa Bay, United Way Suncoast and the University of South Florida's Muma College of Business, to surface the perceptions of Tampa Bay residents on issues of race, racism and racial equity within the region. Data analysis was conducted to determine overall sentiment among residents and identify differences in sentiment between different racial and ethnic backgrounds.

These insights are provided to inform the region's business, government and nonprofit leaders as they engage in the hard, honest conversations about race that must take place to create a more inclusive community.

RESEARCH METHODS

Data was collected via online surveys with 450 residents of Hernando, Hillsborough, Pasco, and Pinellas counties on October 2 – 5, 2020.

Black/African American residents of the Tampa Bay area were oversampled to ensure the validity of crosstabulation data presented throughout this report.

Overall results have been weighted by gender, race, and age to ensure representativeness of the Tampa Bay population.

TOPLINE RESULTS

STATE OF THE REGION RACIAL SENTIMENT SURVEY

TOPLINE RESULTS

1. Tampa Bay area residents perceive race relations in their community more positively than race relations in the U.S. as a whole. Residents also perceive race relations in their communities as remaining relatively stable, while race relations across the U.S. are worsening.
2. Black residents are more likely to view issues of race and racial discrimination as pervasive, systemic issues that are present in relatively all elements of society, while White residents are more likely to view these issues as being situationally dependent.

TOPLINE RESULTS

3. A large majority of Black residents have experienced racial discrimination in their community, an experience that is comparatively rare for White residents.
4. Tampa Bay residents are largely in agreement that Black people are treated less fairly than White people when dealing with the police or criminal justice system.

TOPLINE RESULTS

5. White residents believe that it has become less acceptable for people to express racist or racially insensitive views over the past few years. However, Black residents believe that it has become more acceptable to express these views.
6. 2 in 3 Tampa Bay residents support the Black Lives Matter movement. However, nearly 1 in 3 White residents strongly oppose the movement.

TOPLINE RESULTS

7. About half of Tampa Bay residents believe issues of racism are very important in the upcoming election. Black Tampa Bay residents are much more likely to hold this belief than White residents.
